

A Report on the “Meet the Scientists” Programme.

The Department of Biotechnology on 20.03.2024 organised the “Meet the Scientists” programme, which all the 4th Sem, 6th Sem students and research scholars attended. The distinguished professors, Utpal Bora from IITG and Prof. Dinesh Kumar from ICAR-New Delhi, addressed the gathering and delivered talks on “Sericulture for Sustainable Development” and “Career Prospects for Undergraduate Students”, respectively.

Prof. Utpal Bora discussed the role of sericulture farming in ecological, economic, and social benefits, emphasizing its potential for sustainable livelihoods and its importance in the context of environmental quality and sustainable land value.

Prof. Dinesh Kumar highlights the importance of educational aspirations and the factors influencing students' career choices. He may have discussed the various pathways available to undergraduates and the significance of setting goals for future careers.

All the participants were delighted and inspired by the motivational talk and their valuable insights into the event, contributing to a comprehensive understanding of sustainable practices and educational growth.
